

DOMESTIC VIOLENCE, DATING VIOLENCE, SEXUAL ASSAULT AND STALKING

Violence Against Women Act (VAWA)

The Violence Against Women Act of 1994 (VAWA) is federal legislation that addresses prevention of violence against women, including requirements to offer services for victims of violence and to hold offenders accountable. On March 7, 2013, President Obama signed a bill that strengthened and reauthorized the Violence Against Women Act. Included in the bill was the Campus Sexual Violence Elimination Act (Campus SaVE), which amends the Jeanne Clery Act and affords additional rights to campus victims of sexual violence, dating violence, domestic violence, and stalking. For additional information regarding VAWA see References section or visit govtrack.us/congress/bills

The Southwestern Community College District prohibits crimes of domestic violence, dating violence, sexual assault and stalking as defined by the Clery Act and reaffirms its commitment to maintaining a campus environment that emphasizes the dignity and worth of all members of the college community.

Reporting Incidents of Domestic Violence, Dating Violence, Sexual Assault and Stalking

If you have been the victim of domestic violence, dating violence, sexual assault, or stalking, you should report the incident promptly to the District's Employee Relations and Title IX by calling, writing or coming into the office.

Employee Relations/Title IX Office

900 Otay Lakes Road Chula Vista, CA 91910, Room 46B-150, 619-482-6329, swcertix@swccd.edu

Victims are also encouraged to report the incident to the College Police Department at 619-482-6380. Victims of domestic violence, dating violence, sexual assault, and stalking may also report the incident to District Administration or local law enforcement agencies.

All reports of domestic violence, dating violence, sexual assault and stalking made to the College Police will automatically be referred to the Title IX Coordinator regardless of whether the complainant chooses to pursue criminal charges or not.

However, in order for the District to investigate a Title IX complaint, the alleged incident must meet the following conditions:

- The alleged incident occurred within the US;
- The individuals involved in the alleged incident must be participating in any educational program or activity controlled by the College District (including buildings or property controlled by recognized student organizations);
- If the alleged incident took place off-campus, it must have been at a College District sponsored event;
- The alleged conduct meet the definitions of sexual harassment and/or gender-based harassment under Title IX Final Rule.

Under Title IX, sexual harassment is defined as unwelcome conduct that is based on sex, which must meet ONE of the following conditions:

- Quid Pro Quo Harassment, a school employee conditions education or employment benefits on an individual's participation in the unwelcome sexual conduct;
- Hostile Environment Harassment: the unwelcome conduct must be one where a reasonable person determine it is so severe, pervasive, and objectively offensive that it effectively denied a person equal access to the school's employment or education programs;
- Sexual assault, Dating violence, Domestic violence, or Stalking behavior.

The College Police Department will immediately initiate a criminal investigation into on-campus sexual assaults and utilize investigation services and resources of partner agencies. Although strongly encouraged to report, victims have the right not to report crimes to law enforcement and decline any of all involvement with the police.

The College Police will undertake immediate steps to ensure the safety of the victim and others on and off campus, begin the collection of evidence which could include obtaining physical evidence and statements from the victim, witnesses, and suspect(s), and meeting the legal requirement of criminal investigations and prosecutions. The College Police will also notify the Office of Employee Relations and Title IX for potential administrative action, and Student Services for potential victim accommodation for students. Student Services staff members and the Title IX Coordinator will assist any victim with notifying law enforcement if the victim so desires.

Victims of domestic violence, dating violence, sexual assault, and stalking may report the incident directly to Employee Relations and Title IX office at 619-482-6329. If victims who are students desire accommodations, they may reach out directly to Student Services by contacting Rachel Fischer or Janet Bynum at 619-421-6700 x5810. For victims who are employees and who desire accommodations, they may reach out directly to Employee Relations and Title IX at 619-482-6329.

The Office of Employee Relations and Title IX or Student Services will assist any victim with notifying law enforcement if the victim so desires.

Victims may also report crimes to District administrators at other campuses who will assist any victim with notifying the College Police and local law enforcement if they so desire.
